

Christmas Time

A father made sure he could spend time with his daughter – who had to work on Christmas – by becoming a passenger on every flight she was scheduled to work. In a heartwarming gesture, Hal Vaughan booked multiple flights on Christmas so that he could be with his daughter Pierce Vaughan, a flight attendant for Delta Air Lines. Delta responded to this story of a dad’s devotion to his daughter at Christmas time. “We appreciate all of our employees for working during the holidays to serve Delta customers, and love seeing this awesome Dad having the chance to spend Christmas with his daughter – even while crisscrossing the country at 30,000 feet,” it said.
